

My work is autobiographical in nature. I gain inspiration from events that happen in my life; objects that I own or find; and conversations that have taken place. The medium and style that I use to visually communicate my ideas changes based on what I feel will best communicate my thoughts. As a result, I have a wide repertoire of work from representational to abstract. Regardless of the medium, each has a personal story behind it.